Dear Secretary Johanns,

I am very concerned about funding for national nutrition programs. Hunger is on the rise in the U.S. and, as a nation, we must meet the needs of hungry and poor people. Since most of the people who receive food stamps are children, elderly, disabled, and low-income workers, it is important to continue good funding for this program. Also the school breakfast and lunch programs are essential and should not be reduced. Please consider these ideas as you seek citizen's views on the budget for agriculture and nutrition programs.
Thank you.

Sincerely,
Margery Galbraith
