

From: "micheal.martin@us.army.mil%inter2" <micheal.martin@us.army.mil>
Subject: Farm Bill 2007 Official Comments - 08/17/2005 05:40 PM CDT
Date Sent: 08/17/2005 05:40:02 CDT
Date Received: 08/17/2005 05:41:57 CDT

---

Email: micheal.martin@us.army.mil

FirstName: Mike

LastName: Martin

Address1: 2421 Outside Blvd

Address2:

City: North Pole

State: Alaska

zipcode: 99705

Question1: Farm policy must be flexible enough to meet local requirements in each area. For example, in Alaska, farming is like none other, with relatively long summer days of sunlight and frigid winter days thereby creating weather and soil conditions not seen elsewhere. New farmers and ranchers here are pioneering new practices to make farming profitable. Farm Policy should address these differences locally and not hinder new farmers and ranchers, rather provide incentives for them to enter agriculture.

Question2: Farm policy should be designed to capitalize on the demand around the world, through education and awareness to our farmers and a good marketing program to world customers.

Question3:

Question4:

Question5: Through promotion of Alaskas Natural Gas and providing it to rural areas.

Question6: