Question1: if we stop importing so many agricultural items, the average farmer will be able to sell more.

Question2: we should be allowed to export just as much as we are importing to balance it all out.

Question3: based on records for the past three years based on their yields.

Question4: we put too much emphasis on this countries materials. we badger the american farmer with rules and regulations, but there seems to be little regulations on imports. i have seen produce in the store that was imported and was rotted. i think i will stick to local homegrown produce.

Question5:

Question6: not sure
