Question4: The government has spent millions of dollars in cost shares to plow up CRP acres to planta more friendly grass for wildlife. Most of those plowed up acres in our area a full of weeds and the grass that has been plowed up is coming back. We were told years ago that Plains Blue Stem was the grass to plant for our area. Wildlife people decided that Plains Blue Stem wasn't good for the birds. I have plains blue stem and the new grass. There are as many quail and pheasants in my blue stem as in the mess that was plowed up and replanted. I feel that many land owners would like to resubmit their acres for less money if they didn't have to plow and replant. I work for FSA and have seen the mess that plowing up and the dollars that have been spent for no more benefit. It's a shame that environmentalists decide what is best for the American Farmer. Please take these comments under consideration.
