Question1:

Question2: Remove caps on production levels and site fair trade note free trade with world markets. open the door to farmers who feed the world to allow fair trade

Question3:

Question4: By allowing marginal lands to be enrolled into programs to encourage such lands to be set aside to prevent erosion and filter pollutants from watersheds.

Question5: As urban sprawl takes its toll on lands that have been forested, farmed, pastured or meadows, more and more lands are being swallowed up by this plight across our land. By having initiatives for farmers to participate in programs that support CRP practices, it ensures animals to flourish into the upcoming decades, and for our children to enjoy.

Question6: Subsidies and limits on crop growth has stifled the American farming practices. Free trade is hampered by rules and regulations of caps and limits. 3rd world countries have people go in without and America just stores the surpluses
