Question3: Farmers should be supported in making the transition to sustainable methods of production. Large industrial farms should not be supported as they harm the environment, lead to antibiotic resistant disease, over production/lower prices of commodities, over use of high fructose corn syrup in processed foods (linked to obesity), 30% higher use of fossil fuels than organic farms.

Question4: Again, support farmers in transitioning to sustainable methods of production. Stop rewarding large industrial farming operations based on how much they produce. Stop supporting monocropping and industrial meat production. Cheaper commodities should no longer be the goal - we are clearly not starving - quite the opposite.
