Question1:

Question2: - fund Food and Agriculture Policy Councils in each state to develop marketing opportunities for producers. The Colorado FAPC is currently working on Farm to School and Farmers' Market initiatives

Question3: - vegetable and fruit producers also need assistance.

Historically they've had none. No great suggestions here, but these crops have a higher risk than most that are currently supported and are also subject to free trade, which often proves to sell at prices that these farmers cannot compete with.

Question4: - support NRCS Conservation Technical Advise - for non-cost share, non-traditional audiences (small acreage, non-farming audiences).

Question5:

Question6: - continue speciality crops program

-fund more organic research (esp. organic soil fertility mgt - better understanding of soil microbiology)

-fund direct marketing projects - great returns for farmers here
