Question4: I feel there is so much attention to things going on across the world and not enough attention to our own country. The conservation of the US should be one of the most important programs we have. We won't have anything to protect if we don't take care of our own homeland first. Incentives should be given for continued conservation improvements and practices. Also look into incentives for energy alternatives such as harnessing wind power.

I am very proud of my rural roots and want to see things continue to improve on the family farm.
