Question1: We must limit the dollar amount of Government payments.

Large farm operations are extremely profitable due to economics of size.

Smaller farms cannot compete, but would benefit most from ag subsidies.

The perception of ag producers is that the US government will not let them fail. Either crop insurance or emergency payments or subsidies will ensure a profit. Therefore, there is absolutely no fear of potential failure when purchasing land. That in turn drives land values sky high.

Question2:

Question3: Limit all subsidies to a dollar amount per individual, not entity. Close loopholes created by producers.

Question4: Continue to encourage conservation as with the CSP and tree planting programs.
