Question1: Get government out of the way. Let the private market dictate the prices of land. If the market does not support more farming then it would be disastrous to use tax money to get more farmers to farm.

Question2: Get government out of the way! If there is a global demand for a product the price will rise encouraging production. We must remove all barriers to free trade. Let the free market set prices.

Question3: You can't legislate away the law of supply and demand without creating unintended consequences. Let the free market set prices. Let private companies provide crop insurance. The meddling of the USDA has made it unprofitable for small farms to exist.

Question4: The best way to achieve conservation and environmental goals is through private property ownership. No farmer would knowingly harm the value of his own land. Farmers who damage the environmental resources owned by other people should be held accountable in civil court.

Question5: Society changes, rural areas will change no matter what government does. Farming has become more efficient and simply does not require as much land. The Federal government should do absolutely nothing.

Question6: The government has no role in development of new technologies. Any such tax expenditures are nothing but pork. Let the consumer decide what products he/she wants and is willing to pay for via the free market. Stop giving my tax dollars away in corporate subsidies.
