Question1: Stop subsidizing big factory farms and subsidize small farmers who produce organic, environmentally enriching farming.

Question2: Americans & foreign consumers care about how farm animals are treated but we are far behind other countries in setting minimum standards for the welfare of animals in factory farms, transport & slaughter. USDA needs to eliminate inhumane practices, like crates for pregnant sows, veal calves & battery cages for laying hens.

Question3: Nix subsidies to large producers that subject animals to intensive confinement, mutilations & adverse handling. Only give $ to those that practice humane methods.

Question4: Give $ to only those that practice conservation & pollution free/non-destructive farming.

Eliminating factory farms will benefit both animal welfare & the environment. USDA needs to set minimum space allowance so animals have freedom of movement to perform natural behaviors and this will also protect the environment by decreasing pollution & waste disposal problems.

Question5: Give $ to farmers in rural areas, and around cities to prevent sprawl- as long as they practice organic & conservation methods.

Question6: Support organics, renewable, sustainable- stop propping up huge destructive factory farms.
