Question1:

Question2: I care how animals are treated. You should eliminate those cruel practices that the US "factory farmers" employ, such as confining sows into tiny cages, confining veal, and the battery cages for chickens. Other countries are generally more humane and I will always buy cheese from any where other than the US.

Question3: Current subsidies benefit large producers that subject animals to intensive confinement, mutilations and aversive handling techniques. The USDA should stop providing financial assistance to producers that participate in practices shown by scientific research to be inhumane.

Question4: The USDA should propose setting minimum space allowances that provide animals with the freedom to perform natural behaviors and also protect the environment by reducing pollution and waste disposal problems.

So far, all you have cared about is financial gain for factory farmers.
