Question1:

Question2: The treatment of farm animals should be a top priority, because American and foreign consumers are becoming increasingly aware of the suffering factor farm animals are forced to go through.

Consumers, here and abroad, care about how farm animals are treated. Your organization should propose eliminating the most egregious factory farming practices, such as crates for pregnant sows and veal calves and battery cages for laying hens.

Question3: The USDA should not give financial assistance to producers that participate in practices shown by scientific research to be inhumane. Current subsidies benefit large producers which put small family farms out of business.

Question4: By eliminating factory farming practices. This would benefit both animal welfare and the environment. USDA should require that animals be allowed the freedom and space to perform natural behaviors. This would also protect the environment by reducing pollution and waste disposal problems.
