Question1: I'll use space for my comments on all subjects in the next Farm Bill.

All Farm Bill money should be spent on developing markets for biomass energy and bio-chemicals that can be produced from farm and forest crops. Our farmers and forest landowners can grow the crops needed to reduce our dependence on foreign oil. Stop spending money on programs which provide payments for farmers to do nothing. Do not pay landowners not to sell their land for development. Let the market decide what the best use of land is.

For the next 25 years, Farm Policy should be directed to use our land and financial resources to decrease our dependence on petroleum fuels and hydrocarbon based chemicals. This can be done by supporting the creation of an industry based on the production of our own farm and forest crops. The result of this will be an enormous stimulus to rural economies.
