Question1: Anytime the government gives one farmer a larger grant or crop insurance guarantee than another farmer the government is selecting a winner and a loser. This past government policy has destroyed many family farms.

Question2: Do not drive up land prices with programs that give more to those farmers with a greater probability of greater profits.

Question3: The government should provide equal grants and crop insurance to all farmers if they decide to provide any benefits to one farmer.

Question4: Limit the maximum conservation grants per individual and per township.

Question5: Choose grants or loans that most individuals living in rural areas can benefit from rather than awarding massive financial grants and crop insurance guarantees to a select group of huge farmers.

Question6: Research and Development is great as the benefits flow to many individuals versus a select group of huge farmers.
