

United States: Sorghum

Yellow numbers indicate percent of national total each state contributes to national production annually. States not numbered contribute less than 1% to the national total.

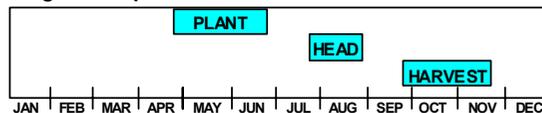

Legend

- Major growing areas
- Minor growing areas

- Major growing areas combined account for 75% of total national production annually
- Major and minor growing areas combined account for 99% of total national production annually
- Major and minor growing areas and state production percentages based upon averaged NASS county-level and state production data from 1996-2000

Sorghum crop calendar for most of the United States

The sorghum crop calendar is about 1 month earlier across southern Texas and the Mississippi Delta.

