

Patrick Packnett
Deputy Administrator, Global Market Analysis,
Foreign Agricultural Service
USDA
Washington, DC

BIO: Mr. Packnett is the Deputy Administrator of the Foreign Agricultural Service’s Global Market Analysis program area. His responsibilities include oversight of FAS’s market intelligence, trade and policy analysis and participation in the USDA’s World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates process. Mr. Packnett previously served as Assistant Deputy Administrator of the former Office of Global Analysis and Deputy Director of the former Cotton, Oilseeds, Tobacco and Seeds Division of FAS. Mr. Packnett began his career with USDA’s Agricultural Marketing Service before transferring to FAS in 1991. He holds an Agricultural Economics degree from Alcorn State University in Lorman, Mississippi, and completed USDA’s Senior Executive Service Candidate Development Program through American University’s Key Executive Leadership Program in 2013.